

GRENFELL TOWER

By Saffiya Patel

In the worst of man's dream , in the remoteness of any sleep none dared to imagine perishing by the flames of fire while one was alive and breathing , nothing so fearsome ever so unexpectedly

Those screams, those cries , those appeals to God must have all kept falling as they suffocated and choked and yielded to death so helplessly

More than a dozen in that raging fire perished , others who got engulfed by those flames , Some woke up to find their own faces unrecognizable , Some with burnt and scarred skin

And those they lived with and loved , fell apart due to that wrathful fire devastating their existence in their very own homes , how could fate be so callous ? how could time not alert them ?

For the lost and brave souls , who were once resident , may you all rest in peace , now that the firestorms of hell , transformed to the gardens of heaven .
